REMEMBRANCE DAY, SUNDAY, 11th

Two minutes' silence at 11,00 o'clock a.m. on Remembrance Day, Nov. '11, is called for in a letter which Hon. W. L. Walsh, Lieut.-Governor of Alberta, has sent to the Executive Council, in which is stated the fact that His Majesty the King has approved such an observance thru out the Empire. Dominion, provincial and municipal authorities are asked to arrange for the suspension of all vehicular traffic during the period of silence.

Stony's Stores Closed Monday

Monday next, November 12th, is being celebrated this year as Remembrance Day, and is a public holiday. All places of business in Stony Plain will be closed during the day.

Hallowe'en Party at S. P. H.

The Hallowe'en party at the school the evening of Oct. 31 was a great success. Ghosts and witches ushered the guests to a decorated room where a program of songs, plays and stunts most appropriate to the occasion showed the ability of the preens. High school boys and girls. An hour was spent in games. Refreshments were followed by dancing until it was time for all to sing Auld Lang Syne and receive a good-night kiss in mockery.

Prize winners were:
Men—Murray Barnes 1, Gustav Gotsinger 2.
Ladies—Betty Schwalbe first, Nora Kowensky 2d.

Wheat Grading Low.

Since the hauling of this year's crop to the elevators began complaints have been heard from the grain-raisers about the poor grades given their wheat by the grain-buyers. This is no new complaint, by any means; but the chorus of complaints seems to be larger, this season.

At that, the discontent is not so great in this district as in some others.

Up at Grande Prairie the board of trade brought the matter of the low grading of wheat being done there to the attention of the Chief Grain Commissioner at Winnipeg, and asked that Commissioner Harrison be sent in the Peace River country immediately to investigate complaints.

Regarding the matter, Grande Prairie Tribune has this to say:

If the complaints are justified, then the people should know it and the injustice be rectified as soon as possible. If, on the other hand, the present grading and spreads are justified, then the people should know that, too, so that elevator companies will not be placed in a bad light before the country.

In order to give local grain-raisers all that there is in their grain, and also the benefit of all double Stony Plain grain buyers, it is said, have agreed, under instructions, to not grade any grain whatsoever after dusk. This rule should prove satisfactory to all parties.

Greatest Hunt For Gold In The History Of Canada Has Been Carried On Over Wide Area

A season that brought what is believed to have been the greatest hunt for gold in Canada's history is drawing to a close. No figures are available to show the exact number of prospectors and assistants who struggled through often inhospitable country, but a careful approximation indicates a total of about 18,000.

Increased prices for the yellow metal spurred prospectors' activity. An added factor was extensive use of aeroplanes, which provided access to new districts and revealed existence of still more. Aerial photography, it is said, has revolutionized the metal-mining industry.

Pictures taken from speeding aeroplanes tell experts much. The topographical survey of the Department of the Interior produced 40,000 aerial photographs during the summer. From these, most of them taken in Northern Manitoba, Athabasca, Great Bear and Great Slave regions and in the Nahanni district near the Yukon boundary, maps are being developed.

Planes of the Royal Canadian Air Force carrying aerial surveyors made flights over the famous Lac district in Northwestern Ontario. Some flights were made in other provinces. Much of the aerial photography this year was designed to help gold seekers.

Luck, prospectors and geologists say, is still the most important factor in the hunt for gold and less valuable metals. Once a tree was blown down. Its roots tore up the surrounding soil and bared what developed to be one of the richest veins ever discovered in Canada. Last summer a prospector stopped on the shore of a lake because a high wind endangered his canoe. While he waited for the storm to abate he discovered what is regarded as one of the most important finds of the year. Such incidents are said to make prospectors superstitious.

Aerial photography has removed some of the chance from prospecting. It tells the field man what rocks contain no gold and the territory where the soil, or what miners call "overburden," is too deep for them to find workable veins, even if they did exist. They help him concentrate his efforts where it is most likely to succeed.

Pictures show granite formations in which metals are seldom found, and, on the other hand, indicate geological "faults" and great fractures where profitable mineralization is more probable.

Stereoscopes placed over the pictures show the valleys and hills in relief. After discovery of a vein a study of the pictures helps in development, as it shows the contour of the country and indicates the best route for a road and most advantageous location for a mill.

In the files of the topographical survey 600,000 negatives are kept, and a sufficient number of prints are available to prevent any possible shortage.

Got What She Wanted

Action Of New York Girl Would Seem Justifiable

Another story of an individual bucking the tides of big business is told us by a young lady who wanted a certain size. She found the girl she wanted at Altman's, but told the girl she needed a size larger than those on display. The girl asked her what color, and our young lady said, the color didn't matter, because she was going to cover them with cloth. Altman's covered buttons the girl said, and would be pleased to do the covering. The young lady said she'd like to cover her own buttons, please. In that case, the girl said, she couldn't sell the buttons. Altman's never sold buttons for covering. The girl said, she drew herself together and told a little white lie. She would take six red buttons, and wouldn't ever dream of re-covering them. The girl sold them.—The New Yorker.

WHAT DOES YOUR HANDWRITING REVEAL?

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT (Grapho-Analyst)
(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: Hundreds of readers have written in, asking the author for a personal character analysis. Have you? The well-known Grapho-Analyst who is writing this series of fascinating articles will be glad to tell you what your writing reveals. See the special offer at the end of the article.)

This week, there are several letters that have a general appeal to a good many of my readers, dealing, as they do, with situations that may well arise for anyone.

Miss C., of Winnipeg, says: I am a stenographer, but simply detest the life. I am unhappy and feel that I am waiting my time. I have dabbled a bit with painting and drawing, and have been able to make a little extra money now and again in this way. What do you advise?

There are very definite indications in your writing that you have a rare talent for artistic work. Some of my correspondents ask should they take up art as a career, and I am forced to advise them against it. But in your case, I can very earnestly suggest that you can take up drawing as a career. This does not mean, of course, that you are to give up your present position at once.

You must take up your art work, seriously, but in your spare time. Work hard at it; take a good course, because it will pay you in the long run, and when you are in a position to do so, take a vacation in the art world. A widow in the North country had a son 38 years of age, and he had two children. I have been keeping company with a gentleman for some time, and he was nice to me. He says that he divorced his first wife, as she was unfaithful, and did not look after him, preferring to do as she pleased. I have a bit of money and am wondering whether I should marry my friend, or whether I should continue looking after my children. Please tell me what I should do.

I am sorry that I cannot recommend you to marry your friend. His writing is that of a deceitful and rather dishonest person. My correspondence would be far better off to remain as she is. She can, at least, see that her children are properly looked after. If she were to marry her friend, she would be in for some unhappy times.

She is not old yet, and will very likely have other opportunities of meeting someone who would make her a good husband, and see that the children were adequately looked after. But, in any case, she is better off as she is now, than married to the man she has in mind.

Miss S., living in a Toronto suburb, writes: My boy friend has returned to Germany, having lost his employment here. He said that he would either come back, or send for me. Will he remain in love with me? Should I wait for him?

This is a case where Grapho-Analyst is not sufficient. I have to call in the aid of psychology. Your friend is of a very affectionate and impulsive nature. He is reliable enough, and undoubtedly meant what he said when he told you he would marry you one day. But he is a long distance from you, and my advice to you is to cultivate other friends. Do not shun the company of other boys.

You will know before very long whether your boy friend is still faithful to you. But it may be that he will stop writing. He may meet someone over there whom he likes better. And the blow will not be so hard to you if you have other friends. So I advise you not to do as you say about having nothing to do with other boys. That is unusual, and will not help you very much. On the other hand, it may embitter your nature, more particularly if your own friend forgets you.

Do you want your character revealed from your handwriting? And know what your friends are really like? Send specimens of the writing of your friends, and enclose 10c for each. Send with 3c stamped addressed envelope, to: Lawrence Hibbert, care of Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Letters will be answered as soon as possible but please allow about two weeks for my reply.

Family Life In Russia

May Be Wrecked By Duty Of Citizens To State

A wholesome family life holds any race together. Nations crumble when the sanctity of the home is disregarded or social laws are abrogated. It is not unlikely the Soviet union of Russia may crumble on that phase alone for the Bolsheviks or new dealers there are playing with fire. In discussions in Russian newspapers the young communists are asking if it is possible to continue the family organization and at the same time discharge their regimented duties to the state. The burden of the correspondence is the complaint that the amount of work required of citizens by the community leaves neither men nor women sufficient time to develop a wholesome and affectionate family relationship. Some frankly ask why, if it interferes with the discharge of the duties imposed by the state, family life should not disappear, at any rate for the present. The appalling implications of this suggestion show how far the process of regimentation has diverted the mind of Soviet youth.—Brandon Sun.

Manitoba Pension Plan

No Change In System Contemplated By Government

Changes in the Old Age Pensions Act in Ontario proposed by Hon. David Croll, minister of public welfare, appeared to be a move toward the system now in effect in Manitoba. C. K. Newcomb, administrator of Manitoba old age pensions, states: In Winnipeg applications for old age pensions were made to the social welfare commission. In all other Manitoba towns applications were made to municipal councils. Those whose applications were rejected may appeal to Mr. Newcomb for a hearing.

Mr. Newcomb said he had no reason to believe any changes in the system were contemplated by the provincial government at present.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Your Own "Candid Camera"

A "candid camera" snapshot, replete with the troublous atmosphere of an unhappy moment. It tells the whole story.

Some magazines and newspapers make a great to-do about "candid camera" pictures, so called because they portray the great and near-great in unguarded moments and poses. Many "candid camera" shots have been made at banquets, receptions, conferences and other such affairs. They show notables being thoroughly human, unaware of the presence of a camera.

Naturally such pictures have a lot of appeal. For they show people as they really are—eating, talking, worrying.

These candid snapshots are usually made with very small cameras equipped with exceptionally fast lenses and film. Such cameras do not need brilliant light, and they can be handled so casually that they do not become conspicuous.

But you don't need any such camera to make your own "candid camera" snapshots. Of course, you will not be able to shoot under ordinary room lighting—unless your camera has an f3.5 lens, or faster—but you will find ample opportunity in places where the light is better.

For example, do you have a picture of Dad, or of Brother lighting his pipe? Nothing could be more characteristic—and yet it's the sort of thing you'll never find in an ordinary posed photograph. To get such a picture you have to be ready to take advantage of a fleeting opportunity. Some day when you have your camera out for some shots around the house, your pipe smoker is quite likely to come out on the porch to watch you. Maneuver so that he is in fairly good light, focus your camera for the distance between him and your lens, watch for the moment he puts match to tobacco and then quietly turn and snap him. Chances are he won't realize what you have done. And you will have a "candid camera" shot to enjoy.

A whole section of your album may be very well devoted to such pictures. Certainly they are interesting more than likely they'll be amusing, too.

It is essential that you use the fastest kind of film for these snapshots. Of course, you usually have to work under indoor lighting. Modern super-sensitive film is remarkable stuff; you should know it anyway.

Fast film is also working at its widest opening, a watchful eye and quiet, unobtrusive camera work—that are the only essentials for many "candid" shots.

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

It is an honor almost unique that the princes of the Indian states are paying Lord Willingdon, viceroy of India. They have subscribed funds with which a statue in his honor will be erected in New Delhi—"to express," in the words of the official announcement, "the high esteem and regard in which the Viceroy is held by the princes generally and to commemorate his long and distinguished connection with the country."

The success of Lord Willingdon's service as governor-general of Canada led his friends to believe he had the qualities demanded by the much more onerous responsibilities of his Indian post, and they have not been disappointed. The Dominion has displayed democratic dignity, was an upholder of tradition, but not a stickler for form. His authority did not rest upon conventionality, nor was his influence bounded by the limits of his high office. He went to the trouble of learning Canada, of understanding the Canadian viewpoint, and in every branch of his public service he had the extremely competent support of his wife.

In the larger spheres of Indian affairs Lord Willingdon has demonstrated by these same qualities—and by a happy and rare combination of firmness with tact—his right to be ranked with the great pro-consuls of Britain. When he went to India some twelve years ago, the country was rent with disorder, the fanatic Gandhi was a power in the land and the centre of disaffection and unrest, and there was serious resistance to the British plan of broadening self-government of the Indian people as they were educated to accept responsibility for their own administration. Since that time the Viceroy has not done anything spectacular, but the picture to-day is a very different one. Gandhi is in eclipse, his following largely gone. The country is peaceful, rarely finds its way into the news columns.

And this has been accomplished, we imagine, largely because Lord Willingdon is tactful and shrewd and kind, because it is known he will not tolerate injustice, because his policy in India, as in Canada, is founded on common sense.—Ottawa Journal.

Russia Claims Production Of Greatest Number Of Books

Soviet Russia, a generation ago the most illiterate of Europe, has been assessing its literary achievements and to-day boasts that in the production of books it has surpassed not only every other nation, but even the United States and Germany.

Just recently 500 Soviet authors met in the first All-Union Writers' congress, and laid down the general lines of Russian literature for the future.

In connection with their meeting, figures have been published that show the vast progress the Soviet has made in book publishing since the revolution.

Not less than five million books have been issued within the past 15 years.

Within the past five years the circulation of the writings of Maxim Gorki, the Soviet laureate, has been 18,965,000 copies.

Sholokov, author of "Still Flows the Don," has sold 2,106,000 books.

And even poetry, ranking well below prose in other countries, has vast popularity in Russia. Official figures place the circulation of Demyan Bedin's verse at 7,400,000.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 11

THE CHRISTIAN CITIZEN

Golden text: "All they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." Matthew 26:52.
Lesson: Galatians 5:13-26.
Devotional reading: Micah 4:1-5.

Explanations And Comments

Live at Peace With One Another, verses 13-15. The people to whom Paul wrote this letter lived in Galatia, the Roman province which extended north and south across the central plateau of Asia Minor. In Southern Galatia were the cities where Paul founded churches on his second missionary journey—Antioch in Pisidia, Iconium, Lystra and Derbe. He visited Galatia again on his third missionary journey, and two or three years later wrote this letter.

In the beginning of the fifth chapter, Paul tells his readers that Christ sets them free from the bondage of the old law, and urges them to hold fast their freedom. Then in our lesson text he tells them not to err in thinking that freedom from the requirements of the law means disobedience to its spirit, which is that of love to others. "To men who have been accustomed to think of law as the only obstacle to free self-indulgence, or to those who have not been accustomed to high ethical standards, freedom from the law was easily taken to mean that for the Christian there is nothing to stand in the way of the unrestrained indulgence of his own impulses. Of this danger Paul is well aware (Rom. 6:1; Phil. 3:17; Col. 3:1), and beginning with verse 13 he addresses himself vigorously to meeting and arresting it."

Brothers, wrote Paul, you are free from the law, but Christ and liberty does not mean that you can do as you please. Liberty and license are not synonymous. Do not use your freedom as a license for indulging your lower impulses, but live in accordance with the law of love. "Flesh" is used here for "that element of man's nature which is opposed to goodness and makes for evil. It signifies the entire potency of sin." Through loving service for others, continued Paul, you fulfil the whole divine law, which is, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

A Christian man is the most free lord of all, and subject to none; a Christian man is the most dutiful servant of all, and subject to all." (Martin Luther). Then, remembering that the Galatians were prone to quarrel, Paul adds, "But if ye hate and devour one another [act toward one another like dogs or wild beasts], beware lest you destroy one another [one another's spiritual life]."

"No man resolved to make the most of himself can spare the time for personal contention. Still less can he afford to take all the consequences, including the vitiation of his temper and the loss of self-control."

Little Journeys In Science

GLASS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Historians tell us that the Egyptians discovered how to make glass. The production of glass on a large scale started in Egypt about 1370 B.C. Alkali (sodium carbonate) was melted with crushed quartz, limestone, and copper compounds in crucibles to give a blue glass. Glass made in Egypt was shipped to all parts of the Roman Empire.

Science has shown the modern manufacturer how to produce many new and useful kinds of glass. Ordinary glass, which is composed of soda, lime and sand cracks readily when suddenly heated or cooled. If common glass is heated strongly it softens, and vessels made from it change their shape. The addition of boron compounds and certain metallic oxides to the formula of ordinary glass produces a type of glass known as Jena glass, which can stand high temperatures. Recently scientists have produced pyrex glass by replacing some or all of the lime with aluminum or some other metals.

Pyrex glass is strong and stands changes in temperature so well that cooking dishes can be manufactured from it. Silica, commonly known as sand, can be converted into a transparent glass known as silica glass, which can be heated to redness and plunged into cold water without being fractured.

Optical glass for lenses of all kinds is produced by adding lead oxide to the glass mixture. Optical glass must be free from all color-producing materials and must also be free from very small air bubbles or stringy waves. Cheap imitations of gems are made from glass very rich in lead (paste), and the glass of which cut-glass vessels is made is of this same kind but it contains less lead.

Recently a plate glass has been produced in England which has special strength and toughness. The glass does not splinter when broken, but forms small comparatively harmless fragments. This toughened glass is about five times as strong as ordinary plate glass.

"Old Matt" Was Carriage Attendant

In London Thirty Years
"Old Matt," a familiar character in London, who is estimated to have opened the doors of more than 2,000,000 private cars, taxicabs and hansom cabs, had died in that city, aged 74. His name was Walter Matthews, and for thirty years he was the carriage attendant outside Simson's in the Strand. In his youth he was a noted boxer, and later went to New York as a butler. Since returning to London he declined several offers to return to the United States.

WHEAT PRICES TO BE PEGGED FROM NOV. 1ST

Winnipeg.—Effective Nov. 1, wheat prices will be "pegged" at 75 cents a bushel for the December future and 80 cents a bushel for the May future, it was announced here by the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

The pegging of the price, on a Fort William basis, was made by the grain exchange at the request of the federal government. John I. McFarland, general manager of the central selling agency of the Canadian Wheat Pool, declared the renewal of outside selling recently complained of had caused the pegging.

Text of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange statement follows:

"The government has requested that minimum price be set on May and December wheat contracts of 80 cents and 75 cents respectively, Fort William basis, these to take effect November 1, and the government wheat agency to take hedging on grain purchases. The council of the exchange has acted in accordance with this request."

Duration of the pegged price was not set. Last year, from August 15 to September 14, a pegged price of 70 cents a bushel on the October future was in effect. The October future for this year terminated Wednesday and only the December and May futures will appear on the board to-day, with the July future being added later.

The peg keeps the December option price at the level of the market's close Wednesday, 75 cents a bushel. A gain of 1/4 of a cent will be necessary in the May future, which closed at 79 1/2 cents a bushel.

Reference in the grain exchange's official statement that the government agency would take up hedging on grain purchases was interpreted as assurance a market would be provided for the Western Canadian farmer's wheat. It was also done to enable elevator companies to function in a normal way in the Dominion.

The announcement came from the exchange president, Roy W. Milner, after an emergency meeting of the council.

Mr. McFarland, informed of the council's action, said immediate government action had been found necessary because of resumption of heavy selling in the Winnipeg pit by interests outside the Dominion.

A month ago, Mr. McFarland, who conducts federal government stabilization operations in the Winnipeg pit, made the charge that outside influence was directed at cutting down Winnipeg wheat prices. Two days ago he recommended to the federal government that control and restriction of the Winnipeg pit operations be made effective. He also declared government stabilization efforts would continue.

"There is evidence that the Winnipeg market is still the target of interest foreign to the wheat producer of Western Canada," said Mr. McFarland in commenting on the exchange council's action. "While the government has in mind certain restrictions that will prevent operations witnessed the past few months, it will take some little time to put these into effect."

"In the meantime, the government is not prepared to stand by and watch the demoralization of the Canadian farmer's market by interests outside the Dominion, and has therefore asked the officials of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange to 'peg' prices until such time as regulatory action can be taken."

Probe Munitions Sale

British Government May Investigate Private Manufacture Of Arms
London.—The British government has decided to establish an inquiry into the private manufacture and sale of war materials. It was stated in political quarters. Official confirmation, however, was lacking for the present.

The Daily Mail said the government's decision was partly a result of the senatorial inquiry at Washington and also partly because of a dradlock in the disarmament conference.

It was believed the government also would propose other nations join a conference to discuss the manufacture and exportation of arms with a view to securing a convention establishing international control.

Such a conference, it was suggested, might take the place of the disarmament conference.

Announcement that these steps have been determined upon, it was stated, will be the government's answer to labor's demands in the House of Commons, and suggestion of the necessity for an independent inquiry into the placing of contracts for naval construction.

Urges Development Of The Tourist Industry

Director Of Canadian Travel Bureau

Boston.—Development of the tourist industry between Canada and the United States can "forge a new instrument for peace" between the two countries, said Leo Dolan, of Ottawa, in addressing the Canadian Club of Boston.

Mr. Dolan is director of the recently-established Canadian travel bureau; and he urged an ever increasing tourist traffic between the United States and Canada.

The people of the United States had spent on travel last year "the astounding figure of $5,000,000,000," said Mr. Dolan, stressing "the great need of reciprocity of travel between the United States and Canada." Last year, he said, estimates showed Canadian travellers spent approximately $40,000,000 in the United States.

Sedition Measure

British Government's Inclination To Disaffection Bill Subject To Change

London.—The government's inclination to disaffection bill passed through report stages in the House of Commons but several amendments were written into it during the brief two-day debate.

An amendment by the labor opposition providing a search warrant should be issued only by a high court judge and not as originally proposed in the bill by two magistrates, was accepted by the government. A further change was made when the government accepted an amendment providing no prosecution could take place without the consent of the director of public prosecutions.

The bill purports to check distribution of seditious literature among the forces of the crown.

Baptize Quintuplets

Ceremony Is Performed At Age Of Five Months And Two Days

Callander, Ont.—Solemn ceremonies of baptism of the Roman Catholic church for the Dionne quintuplet sisters were performed at a private service at the Dafoe hospital. Rev. E. T. McNally, parish priest of Corbell, officiated.

The ceremony, performed five months and two days after the babies' birth, was a simple one. It was witnessed by members of the families of both Mr. and Mrs. Olive Dionne, the parents, and others, including Moise Legros, father of Mrs. Dionne; Miss A. Dionne, sister of Olive Dionne; Dr. A. R. Dafoe, the attending physician, and five god-fathers and godmothers.

New Locks Opened

Hatton, Warwickshire.—A new boat was given inland waterways in England when the Duke of Kent opened the new locks on the Grand Union canal between London and Birmingham. The ceremony marked the completion of a $5,000,000 improvement which began in May, 1931.

SCORES VICTORY

Herman Trele recently scored another wheat victory—but this time against the elements. Poor weather conditions played havoc with crops in the Peace River district around harvest time, but they descended upon Wembley too late. Mr. Trele had completed his harvest.

Bright Students

Third Grade Pupils In Toronto

Toronto.—Two Toronto senior third grade public school classes claimed marked superiority over similar bodies in London, Ont., when several students correctly identified Prime Minister R. B. Bennett and Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario.

Major R. J. Blaney, of Wilkinston school, said 15 of 33 pupils in the senior third grade of his school knew R. B. Bennett was prime minister of Canada and that 23 of the same group could identify Premier Hepburn.

Twelve others had heard of Mr. Bennett but could not describe his office, and two appeared never to have heard of him.

Ten students did not know who Mr. Hepburn is.

Seven knew "Dizzy" Dean was a baseball player, five knew he played for St. Louis Cardinals, but the remaining pupils had never heard of him.

In a North Toronto public school, 12 third grade pupils correctly identified Mr. Bennett, five described him merely as premier, one as "governor of Ontario," two as prime minister of Ontario, one as "secretary" of Ontario and one as "president of Canada."

New German Stamps

Berlin.—The reich government announced that a series of postage stamps will be issued depicting "the peaceful activities of the German people." The stamps, which will be of five to seven pfennigs in value, will be issued early in 1935 and the proceeds devoted to charity.

HON. H. H. STEVENS RESIGNS

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, who resigned from the Cabinet on the mass buying issue. The resignation came after his alleged refusal to retract utterances made while chairman of the Royal Commission on Price Spreads and Mass Buying.

Discuss Meat Imports

Britain Submits Memorandum For Future Discussions With Dominions
London.—Conversations between British representatives and delegates from the Dominions concerning the United Kingdom's meat imports were resumed at the Dominions office and it is understood the Britons submitted a memorandum which will form the basis of future discussions.

The memorandum, it was learned, has been cabled overseas to the governments of the various Dominions for their observation. Meanwhile discussion on the question of vital significance to British farmers as well as to the Dominions, has been adjourned for at least a fortnight.

Canada and the other Dominions were represented either by the high commissioners or their representatives. Walter Elliott, minister of agriculture, and J. H. Thomas, Dominions secretary, with other British government officials were also present.

Completes Long Flight

Melrose And Hanson Reach Melbourne On November 1st

Melbourne, Aus.—C. J. Melrose, the solo flying Australian, and Lieutenant M. Hansen, the Dane, both had completed the London-to-Melbourne flight Nov. 1st, coming in seventh and eighth, respectively.

When Melrose buzzed between the pylons at Filton race-course his reputation for coolness was considerably enhanced. Tagging behind him came the tale of how when he was lost 18 miles from Charlieville he landed and hailed a passing motorist seeking directions.

"He's a casual customer all right," said the motorist later, adding his verdict to that already expressed in England a month ago when the flyer stepped from the cockpit after an eight day and nine hour flight from Australia with as little ostentation as if he had made a hop from the nearest airport.

Will Claim Damages

American Flyers, Detained In Persia, Want Compensation

Calcutta, India.—John Wright and John Polando, American flyers in the Melbourne derby, who were detained near the Persian border for more than 24 hours, said they intended to claim damages from the Persian government.

After stripping their engine, they were amazed to find a faulty cylinder was not cracked, as they first believed, and they may now continue the abandoned flight to Melbourne. Otherwise they will sail from Bombay for London, November 10.

Their purpose in returning to London is to discuss their detention in Persia with the air race committee.

PRIME MINISTER ANSWERS LETTER OF HON. STEVENS

Ottawa.—Suggesting that the memory of Hon. H. H. Stevens with respect to events leading up to his resignation as minister of trade and commerce, was "at variance with the recollection of my colleagues and myself," Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, in a letter, expressed the opinion no useful purpose would be served by further correspondence.

Mr. Bennett's letter was in reply to that sent him by Mr. Stevens in which the latter stated at some length his criticism of the prime minister and his colleagues, and dealt particularly with the communication sent him accepting his resignation.

The prime minister's letter to Mr. Stevens was sent to the former minister following a brief session of council, and a short time later copies were made available to the press.

Then the menacing rumors circulated swiftly of impending cabinet changes but no announcements in this respect are anticipated until the return of Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of railways and canals.

Mr. Bennett's letter follows:

"Dear Sir: "I received your letter of yesterday in due course.

"As you resigned as minister of trade and commerce and chairman of the royal commission rather than resign, as proposed, the amicable discussion with your then colleagues, which, by consent, was adjourned on Thursday last, when all the relevant papers to which you refer were available to you, no useful purpose will be served by anticipating parliamentary discussion and continuing the correspondence with respect to events of which I think it proper to state that your indicated memory is at variance with the recollection of my colleagues and myself.

"Yours truly,
(Sgd.) "R. B. BENNETT."

King Boris Drives Train

Takes Place Of Engineer Who Was Seriously Burned

Sofia, Bulgaria.—King Boris risked his life to save an engineer from death in his burning locomotive, and then himself took the throttle to bring the train more than 100 miles to Varna.

The king left his special car, attached to the train, near Strazica when fire broke out in the coal tender. Noticing the engineer's clothes were alight, he climbed into the cab and pulled the burning garments from the man's body.

After arranging for medical care for the seriously injured engineer, Boris took the driver's place and drove the locomotive the rest of the way to Varna.

Trade With Newfoundland

Tariff Reductions Have Good Effect On Trade With Canada

Ottawa.—Tariff reductions announced by Newfoundland's commissioner of public utilities will, it is anticipated, have a beneficial effect on Canada's trade with Newfoundland.

In the three months ended June 30 of the present fiscal year, Canada exported merchandise to the value of $1,833,438 to Newfoundland. Exports of wheat flour, totalling 73,116 barrels, were valued at $296,106. Imports from Newfoundland during the same three months amounted to $197,367.

Rocket Mail Tested

Trieste, Italy.—A steel tube was rocketed from the side of a mountain near here, and landed undamaged in a valley 2 1/2 miles away, with a cargo of 1,600 letters. The demonstration, testing a speedy means of transporting mail between nearby points, was termed a success by its inventor, Gerard Zucher.

Washington.—Hiroshi Satto, Japanese ambassador to the United States, asserted his country is demanding a navy equal to the strongest in the world because the Japanese fleet their empire is the equal of any other nation.

7. BREAKING THE TARGETS

NATURALLY, no amount of reading about Skeet will help you as much as even a few practice shots, and you will find the information contained in these articles of greater value once you have made a start at the game. It is for this reason that we suggest you keep the complete series for future reference, so that you will be able to practice the advice given to you herewith. The following suggestions come from a well-known Skeet shot, Frank G. Traeger, Jr., of Roseland, 1933 New Jersey State Skeet Champion, and will undoubtedly be helpful to the beginner. Mr. Traeger won the State Championship with the perfect score of 100 straight, and was also High Gun in the Tri-State Shoot, including Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, breaking 99 x 100.

He writes: "Shooting Skeet requires not only the haphazard pointing of a gun in a predetermined path and spasmodic firing of the gun, but also requires extreme alertness and the coordination of the mind, eye and trigger finger. Skeet differs from straight trapshooting in that the gun used is the same one employed in field shooting, and the shooting position is the same a hunter would use when expecting to flush birds. This means that you are increasing your skill with the very gun you would use in actual field shooting. I have heard some hunters say that they enjoy Skeet nearly as much as actual field shooting, and to a certain extent it has its advantages—it can be shot in all kinds of weather and at all times of the year.

"The type of gun is a matter of individual taste and preference. The same applies to length of barrel and how it is bored. Once a gun lover tries Skeet, he soon gets bitten with the 'Skeet bug', and from then on he will acquire more knowledge about shooting, pointing and lead of birds in a short while than he would learn otherwise in half a lifetime.

"The shooting position is the same as the field position when expecting to flush a bird; that is, the gun is held down and somewhat forward in the position of 'Ready', and the target is called for. The gun is thrown to the shoulder after the target is seen in the air, and not before. A free, easy style of constant swing is required, and following through even after pulling the trigger, maintaining a constant lead on the target, is necessary. Targets should be broken as near as possible to the centre of the Skeet field and over Station 8. To sum up, the beginner should cultivate: alertness, concentration, easy stance or position, swing, lead and follow through, and practice to improve skill."

This is No. 7 of a series of 12 articles on Skeet Shooting. Cut it out. When all have been clipped, you will have a complete write-up of this sportsman's sport which is rapidly becoming the vogue across Canada.

CKUA'S WINTER PROGRAM

Once more the University Extension Department offers to the people of Alberta a broadcast program of lectures, music and drama for the fall and winter months. It will be seen from the schedule that the arrangement this year enables listeners to choose the particular subject that they are interested in and know that it will be on at the same hour every week.

Is music the chief interest? Then plan to listen to Vernon Barford on Sunday afternoons speaking on Composers in Their Workshops, and to the plays dealing with Lives of the Masters presented by CKUA Players on the 2nd and 4th Mondays.

Also, for the music lover, there will be the organ recital by Professor L. H. Nichols from Convocation Hall every Tuesday at 8.15 p.m. The daily Symphony Hour from 7 to 8 o'clock will be continued throughout the winter. During this hour an opportunity will be given to listeners to hear some of the finerecordings in the library of 800 records presented to the University by the Carnegie Corporation. Numerous studio programs, presenting local artists, will also be given during the winter.

The evening talks provide something of interest for everybody. Debates and discussions will alternate with the plays on Mondays. On Tuesdays those interested in the latest development in scientific fields will have an opportunity to hear these discussed by experts who are intending to make their talks enjoyable to the layman. Wednesday's eight o'clock period will appeal to book lovers, for the talks about books will guide them in their choice for winter reading. The World Today series on Thursdays will bring to the listener comments on Canadian and Foreign Affairs, and Friday evening nature lovers will have their desires met with talks about the bird life of Alberta.

The afternoon talks on the Farm and Home Forum have also been planned to suit very varied tastes and again a choice of subject and day can be made. For the farmer interested in economic questions that affect the agriculturist, Monday will be the day to listen when various problems will be discussed. Wednesday's talks are planned for the livestock men, and on Fridays, subjects related to crop production will be given.

Dustin swung about to face a gray little figure that stiffened at sight of him. Slim Peters had been cashier of the Seco Bank for more than thirty years. Scotch by descent and cautious by nature, only once had he ventured to extend his activities beyond Seco. He was like Kipling's muskrat that all his life tried to muster courage to run to the middle of the floor. Peters mustered that courage once . . . and Dustin caught him with a long of five thousand dollars on his house. That loan saved Peters his bank job but it made him the bond-slave of Sam Dustin.

"Just a moment, Peters. . . . How much money does old man Carr owe the bank? I've got to know."

"The bank?" Peters quavered. "He don't owe the bank at all, Mr. Dustin. He did owe the bank but old man Pegram took it up. It's a note and Mr. Pegram's wonderin' right now what to do with it. He's lost a lot of money and needs cash."

"How much is the note for?"

"Well . . . Old Carr hasn't paid any interest on it for a year. It's about twenty thousand dollars right now. And I'll tell you more."

Old man Pegram better let go all holds on it just as soon as he can. Old Carr's in a bad way."

Dustin's heart gave a great jump. This was better than he dared hope. He stared hard at the little figure before him.

"I've got a five thousand dollar note of yours, Peters," he said. "It's secured by this house and lot, eh?"

"Yes, sir. That's so. . . . Something hard in his throat seemed to choke the little gray cashier."

"That note of yours—is due next week. I want that note of Carr's that Pegram got. See?"

"I . . . sir . . . I swear I don't see how I can fix it. It's Mr. Pegram's private business."

More than ever did Slim Peters regret that accused flyer in wheat that was to remove him and his old wife from any danger of poverty. He made one final wriggle for escape.

"As matters stand, I don't see how it can help you to own a half share of the Hour-glass ranch," he said.

"Half of it! You're a plain fool, Peters. I'll own the whole place; Soda Springs and all," he added. "Old man Carr owns the Hour-glass, don't he?"

"He owns half of it," said Peters. "That's all. When old man Peter Vinton died, he left the Hour-glass half to Joe Carr, his old partner, an' half to his sister's son, one Gerald Keene. When Carr wanted to borrow on his half of the place, we had to look up the will. That's how I know I saw the will. It says that if either Carr or Keene dies, his half goes to the survivor. . . ."

"For the love o' God! . . . Say that again."

"Peters said it again and Dustin, sure that he had not misunderstood, let go a smoke-screen of profanity. It was not the jovial profanity of good-nature but the vitriolic overflow of one who fears he has been hurt and, with it, not sure of the extent of the injury. In one brief kaleidoscopic moment the failure of his plans seemed sure. If Gerald Keene, the nephew of old Peter Vinton, owned half the Hour-glass then he, Sam Dustin, even if he succeeded in ousting Joe Carr, was only getting a new partner whom he did not even know.

He sized up Peters and whirled him about in the moonlight to face him. There was but one thing to be done. Too much depended on what old Kane knew! That miserable old desert-rat could send him and Spike to jail for a half a lifetime and Joe Carr could keep him out of a fortune. The solution came in a sudden storm of ill-considered impulse.

"If you want to keep a roof over your old wife's head," he snarled, "you buy up for me every scrap of paper that old Carr has signed. I want to own the half-share of the Hour-glass. Get me."

Peters gaped helplessly at him. "I mean what I say, you old fool. Where can I find this man? Gerald Keene? The man who owns the other half of the Hour-glass?"

"I don't know, Mr. Dustin. I swear I don't. Nobody knows. Even Mr. Carr don't know. He's been tryin' to find him through Mr. Burley of the Drovers Bank in Cato but he wrote us that he was handling Mr. Keene's business and that Mr. Keene was travelling somewhere and couldn't be reached 'till now."

Dustin grunted, disbeliever, but he could do nothing at present. He had plenty of money in the bank and Peters knew it. There was no question of the validity of the check that Dustin wrote at the hotel desk and passed to the gray-faced little cashier who took it shakily. He pouted it, refused a cigar and headed for the bank feeling like a condemned criminal who has received notice of an unexpected reprieve.

"I'm sorry for old Carr," he muttered; "but I can't help it. I can't see Mame go to the Poorhouse and that's what'll happen if Dustin sues out that note. Oh, hell! What's the use kickin'. But I ain't gettin' out a spoke in Dustin's wheel."

He saw Pegram at the bank who was only too glad to get rid of Carr's note for Dustin's check and he turned that over to Dustin who promptly headed back for the Broken Spur. He found Spike anxiously awaiting him and he was drawn into the office by a nod from his partner.

"What luck, Sam?"

"The best in the world except for one thing. I found out that old Carr does not own all the Hour-glass. He owns half of it. The other half belongs to one Gerald Keene, nephew of old Peter Vinton. If either Carr or Keene dies, the other gets the whole place. . . ."

"Well," said Spike who saw no further than the end of his nose. "You call it well, do you? Damned if I do. I ain't gettin' out of this man Keene. No one seems to know his address. If I could find him, I'd offer to buy his share of the Hour-glass. One thing is sure now, though. We've simply got to find out from old Dad Kane the exact place where he located that ore."

"I hope you can shut his damned mouth," said Spike passionately. "Ed Raynor, the tax collector, was here for grub and old man Kane began shootin' off his face. He was stridin' 'em and come about what he seen 'em doing up in the hills. I headed him off in time and I don't think Raynor caught on to what he was sayin'. . . . What you goin' to do?" he asked sharply for Dustin, with a sharp little oath, was heading for the bunk-house.

Old Dad Kane, standing just inside the door, was suddenly snatched off his feet and was sent spinning against the wall. He turned like a flash and a rusty old six-gun, a cap and ball affair, was thrust under Dustin's nose.

"You keep your hands where they're used to bein'. . . . In other men's pockets," snapped the old prospector. "What you want? Hey?"

"To shut your fool head and to keep you from lettin' all the world in on what you found. You damned old fool! Don't you know that one word from Ed Raynor'll send a hundred men up Red Water? Come into the house. I want to talk to you."

Wholly angry, sweating inchoate threats at every pore, Kane followed Dustin into the office. Once in the room Dustin turned on him:

"Look here, . . . It's very true was placating for he had time to reflect. . . . It's all my fault. I just couldn't stand seein' our one chance of a fortune go glimmerin' just because you talk too damned much. Remarkable New Aid in Avoiding Colds—Samples Free at Local Druggists

Every Family in This Locality Offered a Free Trial Of Vicks Va-tro-nol For Nose and Throat—Also Of Its Ideal Companion, Vicks VapoRub

RESULT OF RESEARCH

New Aid in Preventing Colds Leads to Plan for Better Control of Colds

PLAN EASY TO FOLLOW

Years ago, Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern method of treating colds. Now, Vicks Chemists have developed the ideal companion to VapoRub—Vicks Va-tro-nol—the new aid in preventing colds.

These two preparations, together with a few simple rules of health, form the unique Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. The helpfulness of Vicks Plan in reducing the number, duration and dangers of colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians. (The Plan is fully explained in each Vicks package.) Here, briefly, is how Vicks Plan works:

To Help Prevent Colds
Watch yourself and children after exposure to any condition apt to be followed by a cold—such as: Contact with others having active colds—crowded public places, stuffy ill-ventilated rooms—sudden changes in temperature, wet or cold, or unaccustomed exposure—excesses in living which lower resistance, such as over-eating, smoking, or drinking—after a hard day when you are overtired.

Then, if you have that stuffy, sneezy, irritation in the nasal passages where most colds start, use Vicks Va-tro-nol at once—just a few drops up each nostril. Used in time, Va-tro-nol prevents the many annoying colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages.

To Help Shorten a Cold

If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, apply Vicks VapoRub over throat and chest at bedtime. Through the skin, VapoRub acts direct like a poultice. At the same time, its medicated vapors are inhaled with every breath direct to the inflamed air-passages. This combined double action through the night loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—eases difficult breathing—helps break congestion.

During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Va-tro-nol every few hours as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment without the risks of constant internal dosing, which so often upsets the digestion—especially of children.

Trial Packages Free

Your druggist has free combination packages containing trial sizes of Va-tro-nol and VapoRub—also folder telling how these twin aids to fever and shorter cures are used in Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. Ask for yours today, as your druggist's supply is limited.

● Are built to operate with the new EVEREADY Air-Cell "A" Battery, an amazing electrical unit that re-energizes itself for at least 1000 hours—which, at 3 hours a day is almost a year's service in the average household.

NO MORE RECHARGING

● You have no more battery recharging. Every program comes through clear as a bell for the entire life of the Air-Cell Battery. But don't confuse the new Air-Cell Radios with ordinary battery-powered sets. They are as unlike the old sets as anything can possibly be. They are new in perfect reception—new in easy operation—new in low upkeep cost.

Air-Cell Radios are now being built by all radio manufacturers—designed specially for the EVEREADY Air-Cell "A" Batteries. Ask any dealer for a demonstration—your interest will be well repaid.

CANADIAN WRITES OF CRUISE

Thoughts of travel to far places where hot sunny days make nature's covering seem more reasonable than fur coats are coincident with the sound of coal rattling into cellars in preparation for the long winter, and a very timely book that will be of great assistance to travel-minded people has just appeared. It is "—and ships—and sealing-wax", by Alan Maurice Irwin, published by Macmillan.

Last year the author, who is a Canadian journalist, cruised around the world in the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain, and this book is a collection of his impressions, a companionable, intriguing sort of book in which he has written delightfully of nice and naughty things, handled a hard-working camera with becoming discretion, and argues in the manner of Kipling that the "Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the skin."

The Mediterranean, Egypt, India—where the author lunched with Lord and Lady Willington, the Malay Peninsula, little known Cambodia, China, Japan—even Hollywood, are amongst the places he writes about.

India, a country that has suffered much at the hands of those whose trade is writing, comes in for some rather rakish debunking; tropic nights and tropical seas come in for some rather good descriptions. Simple, homely adventures amongst the simple, homely people of Bal, develop the amusing knowledge that the women of this modern Eden are very interested in soap and other alien things.

S. Morgan-Powell, noted literary critic of the Montreal Star, writing of "—and ships—and sealing-wax", says: "Mr. Irwin has the light, whimsical touch invaluable for such a record as this, since it enabled him not only to remember what is vivid but to forget what is not worthy of remembrance—it also provides a most attractive medium by which to stimulate the interest of those who have hitherto been compelled for one reason or another, to enjoy their travels abroad vicariously."

On January 10 the Empress of Britain sets out again on her cruise around the world, visiting the ports that provided the copy for "—and ships—and sealing-wax". Her 400 passengers will see the scenes described in the book, experience encounters similar to those recorded by the author, and during the 130 days they are away, will call at 32 ports in 24 different countries.

For those who do not make the cruise this reviewer recommends "—and ships—and sealing-wax", for those who do it is a practical text book.

Brightbank News.

Threshing is nearly wound up in this district. The same refers to Hansen's Corners. Eight machines have been hammering away in the latter district for about 2 weeks.

Mr H Stirling returned recently from Jasper, where he had been on police duty during the summer.

The manufacture of Sauerkraut is now the favorite indoor pastime. "All hands hereabouts will be busy at this for the next few weeks.

Some of the local sportsmen are leaving shortly for the Bear Lake country, after big game. Others are going North, claiming the deer there are of better quality than those to the west.

Meet "Oliver Twist" Tonight

"Oliver Twist," a picture guaranteed to interest all the young folk, and which no doubt will recall other days to their elders, is billed for the local movie theater on this Thurs. Eve., Nov. 8th. This film has the backing of a particularly good cast, and is sure to give pleasure to those who see it tonight.

For those who like a picture full of bursting guns, sizzling torpedoes and heeled-over sinking battle-cruisers, the picture shown here last Thursday was perfect. "Hell Below" was the caption, and it sure had lots of action, and some comedy, particularly the scene showing Jim (Schnozzle) Durante, when he offered to spar an Australian, and found he was pitted against a boxing kangaroo.

Funeral of Philip Baron.

The funeral service of Ph. Baron of Spruce Grove, who passed away at his late residence Oct. 28, was held Thurs. Nov. 1. Service was held at St. Matthew Lutheran church (Manitoba Synod) at Spruce Grove. Rev G Poetzsch officiated. Interment was made in the Spruce Grove cemetery. The pallbearers were: Jacob, Henry, Philip, John Baron; Jacob Schultz and Edward Steffler.

Holborn Happenings.

Holborn: UFA Local announces a grand masquerade dance for Friday, Nov. 23rd. Prizes will be given to the wearers of the best costumes. A good supper and a good time are assured.
